

Harbor College Honors Leaders

Miss Jeanette Thaw, a registered nursing student, has been selected as the outstanding scholar-leader at Harbor College. Miss Thaw was honored at the college's semi-annual awards banquet earlier this month.

Two $100 Highway safety scholarships, sponsored by the San Pedro-Wilmington Insurance Board, were presented to Denver Bullock of the sponsoring agency. Winners were Aubrey Boyd and Elizabeth Bennett, both of San Pedro.

OTHER presentations included nine $30 scholarships from the Associated Students Organization. Winners were David Howerly, Edith Norman, Gregory Chan, Lydia Jett, Teresa Quartararo, Miss Thaw, Henry Molinar, Michael Missios, and Tom Allsbury.

Departmental awards were presented to Raymond Bravo, art; Starr Wilson, forensics; Neil Johnson and Kevin McDonald, journalism; David Howerly, mathematics, physics, and engineering; and Larry Robertson, printing.

Arlene Clark was named vocational nurse of the year and Mrs. Sam Timbers was selected as the registered nurse of the year.

MRS. ANNA DRENT and Mrs. Margaret Phillips received special awards sponsored by the nursing association, Upsilon Nu Sigma. The nursing school education award was presented to Barbara Lang.

Honored for their roles in student government were Gail Press, outstanding senator; Richard Evans, outstanding cabinet member; and Frank Anderson, outstanding Associated Men Students board member.

DANNY REIKS was named the man of the fall and Mike Ruark received the sports trophy. Club service awards were presented to Beta Phi Delta and Phi Sigma Chi and Alpha Phi Omega were recognized for presenting the best homecoming float.

Lynden Kingsbury was named the outstanding member of Spars, while Karen Watanabe won top scholastic honors in the organization.
